Dear Employer, I study Computer Science at Tennessee Technological University while leveraging CSS, HTML, and JavaScript almost daily to develop humble Full Stack applications. My passion stems from web programming, and while I have no formal work experience, my personal studies of the web span more than a year.

I deliver on HTML/CSS. I understand the logical flow of advanced JavaScript. At my peak, I can sit down and code 70-80 hours a week. I am prepared to make the necessary sacrifices to serve the entire contract period. My skills are accurately reflected in my project portfolio which grows each month. With every project, learning is my status quo. I will exceed expectations and solve the company's problems if allowed the opportunity.

Sincerely,

John Simmons
